This, and the fact that badges have been issued for the entire meeting at Jerome, seem to clinch the fact that there will be no racing at Monmouth this year. And the fact also that the court of Errors and Appeals of New Jersey has adjourned without hading down that decision sends home the last nutb.

Mentana won the rich Lorillard Stakes at Morris Park yesterday, in hollow style. Strathmenth, the second horse, beat Pessara a head for the place. The fact that Strathmenth won the Chicago Derby in such casy style, not many days ago, and has since been badly beaten by both Fotomac and Montana, makes the Western three-year-olds out a very poor lot indeed. Strathmeath could win in a gallop there. why Potomac and Montana could stop for a drink on the way and win as easily. Montana's easy win also places Potomac far above the Eastern three-year-olds. Murphy rode Mon-tana in masterly style yeaterday. He was content with last place until the last quarter was reached, when he went out, and the race was never in doubt.

From all accounts the attendance at Brighton yesterday was fully as great as, if it did not exceed, that at Morris Park. This shows that Brighton is no mean adversary. Certainly the programme run off there yesterday was just as interesting from a racing point of view as that at Morris Park.

It is as to business. You must not allow your genius to be fettered by tradition. Affect to receive his ridiculous suggestions at receive his ridiculous suggestions.

Those who laughed at what they called "Johnny Cambeil's presumption" in offering to match Pessara against Strathmeath for $10,000 a side, learned vesterday that this clever trainer was not far out of the way in judging the capabilities of both animals strathmeath beat Pessara the shortest of leads yesterday. The riding of both Tarai on Pessara and Covington on Strathmeath in that fight for the place was brilliant.

Jockey Simms rode four winners at the Brighton track yesterday. Simms is riding in great form just at present, and his mounts should be given due consideration. The Woodburn yearlings will be sold in the addock at Morris Park on Saturday at 11

Nearly all of the horaes in the Morris stable are suffering from a peculiar cruption which resembles chicken-pox.

"Eph" Snedeker brought Riot over from Jerome Park yesterday, and started him in the last race. He got 20 to 1 against him in the opening betting, and at the close 6 to 1 was the best price. Riot won by a neck, and he was well ridden by little Midgeley. Dennis Watson, the colored midget who role the Medusa filly in the second race at Brighton yesterday and won was heartly chered. their ground against the dangerous competi-tion of next season, when Lillian Russell, at the head of her own company, sings at the Garden Theatre, and Francis Wilson, a veritable metropolitan magnet, shines at the Broadway. The Aronsons are going to fight, and their scheme has not as yet been told. It is proposed to carry operations into the roof garden. At the back of this garden the struc-ture over the stage will be pund down and reconstructed, so that the roof will be intact. Then the entire garden will be placed under the shelter of glass and a stage erected directly over the stage proper. The glass garden thus obtained will be handsomely deco rated, and will be used as a cafe chantant. A specialty performance will be given there, and in this way there will be two "shows every night at the Casino-comic opera in the theatre proper and specialties in the roof in

Here are some little bits of advice given by an English authority to people about to launch upon a theatrical career. It is well worth following:

If you have falled in any line of life and have no means of making a living, do not drive a bus or sweep a fashionable crossing, but come into the profession. You will make more money and lead an easier life.

Give no heed to the stage manager's directions as to business. You must not allow your genius to be fettered by tradition. Affect to receive his ridiculous suggestions at rehearsal, but play the part in your own style at night.

It has now been definitely decided that Agnes Huntington will open her next American tour in Baltimore, Oct. 12. She will present a new opera by Planquette, that had one matinee performance in London. Miss Huntington's theatre in the English metropolis will be ready in April. Her managers, Marcus Mayer and Ben Stern, have opened new London of March 1976s at No. 48 Strand. don offices at No. 48 Strand.
